Citation Proves Again
The Faith His Backers
Had In His Abilities

Allen Brewer has commemorated the million dollar victory of Citation with an attractive drawing of the famous Calumet horse that is published this week on the cover. Hollywood Park very kindly cooperated with us in sending material and pictures of Citation's race which brought him into the millionaire class.

Mr. Brewer has also done a full length painting in oils of Citation. As he retires to stud duties this great horse and the efforts of his trainer Jimmy Jones have earned the praise of everyone who has followed Citation's remarkable career. That he was able to come back after his injury and persist in his efforts to earn a million dollars and be the first horse to reach this peak, is due as much to Mr. Jones' persistence and belief in his charge as to Citation's ability. It must have been a difficult matter to keep him racing sound.

Those who saw Citation run as a 3-year-old will never forget the burst of speed he was able to put on. Reminiscent of the power and racing ability of Man o'War, Citation is one of the great horses of all time. That he was not termed the greatest was a piece of racing luck, caused by injury. That it happened to one of the finest racehorses produced in America since Man o'War is just one of those things that makes racing men come back again and again for more, always hoping for the perfect racing machine. Mrs. Wright's decision to retire Citation is a wise one. He could do no more than he has done to earn his place in the hall of fame and he can do much good by passing on his characteristics of speed and stamina over all distances to his progenitors.

Mrs. Warren Wright, through her trainer Jimmy Jones announced on July 19 that "Big Cy" will be retired and that the Hollywood Gold Cup was his last race. Citation will leave for Chicago with other members of Calumet Farm's stable and will there undergo the tapering off process of his training or in racing parlance "unwinding" prior to his shipment to the Calumet Farm in Kentucky.

INNOVATION FOR RACING SAFETY

The new safety wings for jumpers first constructed at Aqueduct and picked up by Chris Wood, field director of the United Hunts Racing Association and hurdle director at Monmouth, add a very constructive item to racing over jumps. Bryce Wing, president of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, has advocated their use on all jumping courses in this country where hurdle racing and steeplechasing are encouraged. Mr. Wing believes the wings are the greatest safety factor that has been introduced in jumping races.

Apparently after the fatal accident to Jockey H. Harris when schooling at Aqueduct, racing officials there got their heads together and decided something had to be done. Lennie Litwauk, track superintendent at Aqueduct, had wings constructed of a plastic material. When Mr. Wood of Monmouth and of the United Hunts heard of this innovation he went over to Aqueduct, saw the wings in operation with horses jumping through them. He liked the idea so much he got in touch with Earl Potter, New Jersey state steward, and Everett Wilson, track superintendent at Monmouth.

From the use of a material known as Homasote, a plastic approximately half inch thick, the track at Monmouth sawed, nailed, and installed a complete set of wings for their new course. It is impossible to tell the difference from wood of these wings when standing even close by them. Posts are made of the same material and the whole arrangement is put on wooden platforms that are driven into the ground by means of spikes. Proof of the undoubted advantage of this wing was amply given on Tuesday at Monmouth when Newtendale Stable's Low Flyer, J. Bosley trained jumper, a green one to the game, swerved out on the far side of the course, struck the top of the wing near the post.

It would have been a head on collision with the old fashioned wooden posts and could very easily seriously injured both horse and rider. As it was the top rail of the wing and the plastic post was smashed but no damage was done that could not be mended in five minutes time.

Only one note of criticism has been heard about this latest application of modern inventive science to an ancient sport. Great care will have to be taken, one writer remarked, to see that the horses do not catch on to the pliable nature of the wings and take to jumping these instead of the fences. For this reason he suggested that it should be used at all tracks. One can heartily endorse his view that these wings be installed at all tracks, in fact everywhere that horses are jumping obstacles guarded by wings, but it is doubtful if horses will take on a 6-foot or 7-foot plank obstacle in preference to a lower one in front secure in the knowledge the planks will give way with them.

Horses don't seem to make a habit of jumping wings. It is a rare occurrence and has heretofore been caused by a very green horse or by a horse pushed out. The rogue who will take on a wing instead of his fence usually does not continue the practice very long. He is the type of jumper who does not make a successful contender between the flags. Horses are like people, prone to follow a leader. They will go over fences much as a flock of sheep go over a stile. It is difficult to imagine that a horse would become so accustomed to the plastic wing that he would turn aside from the lower obstacle in front of him to jump the higher and far more formidable white planking. Wing jumping just does not happen often enough to give a horse immunity from his natural aversion to height.

The possibilities in the plastic type of wing are immense. It can be picked up and moved very easily. It is light and quickly constructed. It is considerably less expensive than boards. It breaks when hit, leaves no splinters. When painted white, it gives a smooth, clean appearance, neater than its wooden prototype that often as not is badly in need of a coat of whitewash. This fencing could well be used to advantage in horse show arenas where there is a lot of changing of jumps, as well as at tracks and hunt meetings. It should take the place of wood as a safety precaution. If some diehards think otherwise, let us not forget Jockey Harris.

Hall of Fame Nips Battlefield By Neck
To Win Exciting Arlington Classic

Joe H. Palmer

After a run of ideal weather, Arlington Park drew a hot muggy day for the Classic, with a little rain in the morning and the threat of more, and so the crowd for the big race was 23,672, or about 2,000 under last year's figure. In spite of this, the track is running comfortably ahead of last year both in attendance and betting.

The East, for the second straight year, ran one-two, with Greentree's Hall of Fame outfinishing George Widener's Battlefield in the last sixteenth, in a very exciting race. Battlefield, fifth in the early stages, surged past the leaders, including Hall of Fame, on the final turn, and the notion here was that this was it. But Hall of Fame, eased to the outside, ran gamely and got back the advantage, winning by a neck. Mrs. Emil Denmark's Ruhe, which has a habit of running third, did it again. There wasn't much to say for the rest of the field, except that Big Stretch, after being a sorry last most of the way, ran enough in the stretch to be fifth.

Hall of Fame is by one Classic winner, Shut Out, out of the daughter of another, Blue Larkspur. Last year, with Big Stretch coming on so well at the end of the season, and with the $75,000 purchase, *Northern Star, also in the stable, John Gaver was about the only one who knew he had a horse named Hall of Fame. The colt won a couple of unimportant races, and it wasn't until the Aiken trials that anybody paid much attention to Hall of Fame. Aiken sensations which can't run are fairly common, and when Hall of Fame ran unplaced in the two Experimental Handicaps it was assumed he was one of them. Since then he's improved steadily, and he came to the Classic off successive victories in the Kent and Leonard Richards Stakes. The Classic purse was, by $220, more than he had previously earned in fifteen starts, of which he had won five. The total now is $125,730.

Another bubble of near invincibility was broken when The Pimpernel, never worse than second in four previous starts, ran eighth and last in the Wakefield Stakes on the opening day of the Empire City-at-Jamaica meeting. The Pavot colt was at 9 to 10, and he had Eddie Arcaro up, and he flattened out steadily after a fast beginning.

The winner was Bayard Sharp's Hannibal, a rather aptly named colt by Roman—War Jitters, since Hannibal, late of Carthage, gave the Romans war jitters from some years. He was bred by Harrie B. Scott, and Mr. Sharp got him from the Keeneland sales last year for $15,600. Up to the Wakefield he hadn't done much, being still a maiden in three starts, though he got seconds in two of them. In his last previous start he had run fourth, when War Fable was beating The Pimpernel for the Dover Stakes, and up to now he has earned $10,975.

War Jitters, a daughter of Man o'War, did not race. She had previously produced The Shaker, a minor stakes winner, and three other winners, including Radiant, which placed in stakes. Hannibal is her fifth foal to race and so she has a 100 per cent record. I suppose Mr. Scott would not take it amiss if I mentioned that he is selling a half-brother, by *Adaris, to Hannibal at Keeneland this summer. Hannibal was the next-to-last yearling in his sale, and so is the *Adaris colt this year.

The Fleetwing Handicap, on July 18, was not particularly exciting except that five of the nine horses in the race had the lead at one time. The ultimate winner, which came at the end from what seemed certain defeat, was Brookmeade's More Sun, which was winning his first stakes since 1949. As a 2-year-old More Sun (Sun Again—The Damsel, and thus half-brother to Sun Herod) won the Graduation Stakes at Detroit and the United States Hotel Stakes and Saratoga Special. Last year he was second in the Vossburgh Handicap, and this year had been second in the Carter. He hasn't been a sound horse, but on occasion a very good one, and he has now earned $92,375 for his owner, Mrs. Dodge Sloan. Brookmeade bred him, but he isn't a Virginia product. Like Hannibal, he was bred at Shandon Farm—on April 13, 1947 if you care—where Mrs. Sloan boards mares that are going to Kentucky stallions.

The star of the C. T. Chenery stable, as you know, is Hill Prince, which got a slight fracture in his right hind cannon at Santa Anita last winter, and is now training—very successfully so far—for a return to racing at Saratoga. But it has at least a potential replacement in another 4-year-old which was virtually unknown until recently. This is the *Blenheim II colt, Bryan G., which dead-heated Arise for the Questionnaire Handicap on July 21. He is named for Bryan Gentry who formerly managed Mr. Chenery's farm, The Meadow, where the colt was bred. His dam is Anthemion, by Pompey, which won the Gazelle Stakes of 1943 for the Chenery blue and white, and the next dam is by *Sickle, who seems to have his imprint on the colt more than the closer ancestors. Bryan G. is a very rich chestnut, with the refinement and the racy lines of so many of the *Sickles—almost the exact opposite of the massive big-framed Hill Prince.

Bryan G. was unable to win at two, though he got some placings. Last year he won three races, but the best were in quite moderate company. This year, after a rather

Breeding Notes

Caves Valley Farm's Future Is Well Fortified With Top Individuals

Karl Koontz

It must make an owner, trainer or advisor feel wonderful deep down inside when he picks a yearling off the counter at the sales and has it turn out well. Battlefield ($4,500 purchase price—$198,677 first year's winnings), Count Turf ($3,700—$22,200), King Clover $2,500—$9,500), Ham Bone ($250—$9,225), Briar's Baby ($300—$6,075) have all made the men proud who picked them out of the sales ring at bargain prices.

But no matter how proud these men are of their judgment, how much more so, is the man who sees a horse he has raised carrying his own colors to a good win. A good winner can always be bought, but no amount of money spent for a royally-bred stallion of proven racing ability and a broodmare of similar qualifications will guarantee a good race horse. Look to the records for many classic examples! To see the fruits of your planning galloping away from the "pack" is one of the most inspiring sights an owner could wish for.

For a number of years C. E. Tuttle's Caves Valley Farm at Garrison, Md. has been raising most of the horses they race. The most distinguished is the distance running son of Questionnaire, Double Brandy.

Trainer N. Schwartz has a veritable arsenal of young racing prospects coming on at the farm. There are three yearlings that will stack up well against anyone's. One that would attract the attention of even the mildly interested horse fan is the dark bay Kam-Pel. This colt is by Devil Diver, out of the Blue Larkspur mare, Tien Lan. Besides sporting a very attractive racing record Devil Diver is the sire of such stakes winners as The Diver, Loto-white, Call Over, Ruddy, and the stakes placing Supersonic. Tien Lan's first and only foal, until the arrival of Kam-Pel, was the stakes winning Double Brandy.

Double Brandy, which bowed a tendon the morning of the Danigerfield Handicap last November 15, is back in training and should garner more laurels before his retirement at the end of the season.

A most attractive miss with just enough white to set her off well, is the chestnut filly Amphispirt. She is by Amphitheatre out of the Stimulus mare Spirit, and at the recent Pimlico Yearling Show she placed third in the class for fillies foaled in Maryland in 1950, the produce of mares covered in states other than Maryland in 1949. On her distaff side this filly is from the family of Modern Queen, Lotopole, Robert Morris, White Label, and Alaking.

The third reinforcement is a dark brown filly by Pavot—Even Tempo, by Equipose. Even Tempo is the dam of Ventolino, by Hash, a hard hitting winner of some $42,575, and is also the dam of Rail Creek, by Coldstream, a 2-year-old winner in the Tuttle racing string. Pavot whose name is magic when it comes to 2-year-old record-breakers, is the sire of Cigar Maid and The Pimpernel, neither of which dwelt along the way toward making a name for their sire.

The racing crop of 1953 at Caves Valley Farm is just as nicely fortified as the yearling crop. One that is particularly attractive in pedigree and appearance is the chestnut colt by Alsab out of Even Tempo, by Equipose. This compact chestnut fellow is the result of an attempt to duplicate the cross that produced the champion 2-year-old filly of 1948, Myrtle Charm, which was by Alsab—Crepe Myrtle, by Equipose.

Another that causes much speculation from the "lookers-on" is the brown filly by *Shannon II out of Tien Lan. The eyes of all horsemen will be turned to the brightly lighted sales ring when the first of the get of the record shattering *Shannon II pass under the gavel.

The remaining two members of the crop are by Armored (*Sir Gallahad III—Then, by *Sickle) and are extremely well balanced individuals. One is a chestnut filly out of Spirit and the other is a bay colt out of the mare Wild Woman, by Wildair—Emerald Gem, by *McGee. This is Wild Woman's last foal as she died while foaling. This mare produced the good winning Discoverer, by Discovery, the winning 3-year-old Astralis, by Sky Raider, and the unraced Alafemme, by Alaking, for Mr. Tuttle, as well as producing the stakes winners Savage and Rascal and the sire Busy Wire. After the mare died a hurried call was put in for a nurse mare, and shortly thereafter a heavy draft mare was on her way. Today one look at the youngster shows that his foster mother has treated him well.

Come To Keeneland

Summer Sales of Selected Yearlings One of Greatest Shows On Earth

Arnold Shrimpton

Have you ever been to the Keeneland Sales? If you haven't, then you've missed one of the greatest shows on earth—an extravaganza of showmanship that would warm the very cockles of the heart of Barnum himself. Come, with me by proxy to the rectangular pavilion at the back of Keeneland's Grandstand, and I'll show you the embryonic side of racing—the very cradle of the race track.

Within this modern, air-conditioned and comfortable arena are enacted many a drama and comedy of horsemanship. For the four days of the Keeneland Summer Sale of yearlings, it is jam-packed with frantic bravado and excitement, for, as each sleek yearling is led into the ring and out again at almost incredible speed, it represents months and months of worry and work, outlay and credit, profit and loss. The very air of the sales is electric with tension and hope. The consignors are hoping for a fat profit; the buyers are hoping for a rare stakes winning bargain; the auctioneers are hoping for a bidding duel; the announcer is hoping he doesn't slip up on a pedigree; the insurance agents are hoping for big premiums; the transportation men are hoping for long hauls; the press is hoping for good stories; the Breeders' Sales Company is hoping for record sales figures; the "fast buck" boys are hoping to find a juicy prospect to unload a horse to on the side; the grooms are hoping for a cash bonus from their employers; and the old negro ring attendant, who follows each horse 'round the sales ring with bucket and shovel is hoping that the inevitable doesn't happen, although long experience has shown him that it always does!

Horse buying, horse selling, horse judging and horse playing, are all part and parcel of the panorama of this all-American pageant of Thoroughbred pulchritude. The first time I saw Congress in session one of the things that impressed me most was that everybody seemed to be having a good time and nobody seemed to be doing any actual work. Then my mentor explained that the serious business of our legislators takes place in Committee, and when a law reaches the floor of either House, all the donkey work on it has already been accomplished, and only the frills and formalities remain. It is much the same at a horse sale. The real buying is done by going 'round the barns, looking and judging those horses you wish to bid on later. Only a tyro sits in the pavilion and starts bidding because he likes the quick glimpse he gets of the horse that is led into the ring, although it has been done with signal success on many occasions.

When the auction begins (always meticulously punctual) there may be only a handful of spectators in the seats, then, suddenly, you will notice a flurry of excitement as a favored yearling is led into the ring, and before you realize it, the place is packed and the show is on. Bids come fast and furiously, but you have to have a quick eye to see them. "Spotters" are employed, whose job it is to pick up the bid and relay it in stentorian tones to the auctioneer. As the bidding goes up and up even the auctioneer will become infected with the excitement, and the timbre of his voice will rise an octave higher. Then there is a momentary lull, together with the warning cry of "well, then, ladies and gentlemen, I'll have to sell him. It's against you over there, Sir. Have you all done? Going, going, GONE!" and you can actually feel the tension in the air subside.

Then, into the ring comes another sleek Thoroughbred. Catalogues rustle, the hum of conversation breaks out until quieted by the announcer, and, we are off again for another mad dash down the road that leads to fame and fortune or the bankruptcy court—a road that is but two minutes long, but is paved with all the hopes, ambitions, and aspirations of those that love the horse and the sport of horse racing.

Yes, it's a wonderful show alright, and if you want to be an actor in it, you have an equal chance with the next guy. All you need is a bank book and the courage to put up your hand and shout "here", and then, for an infinitesimal moment you will find yourself in the spotlight in this great drama of buying a racehorse. Many a man has got into the game on the impulse of the moment, and it's only after you have signed the sales slip that you begin to realize what you have let yourself in for. Your first reaction is to go and look at your horse and wonder what the "little woman back home" is going to say about this, but you will, in all probability, find yourself waylaid by someone who wants to sell you insurance, someone else who wants to haul your horse home for you, and, if you are very lucky, perhaps someone who wants to offer you an immediate profit on your purchase of two minutes ago. If this happens, of course, you don't take it (unless you are a professional horseman, and then you never refuse it) and from that moment on, my boy, you are "in". You are a racehorse owner and you will never be allowed to forget it, either.

Yes, it's a great show, alright, and if you haven't seen it, you have missed one of the great spectacles and thrills of the horse world. Come on in, the water's fine! You may easily buy the Kentucky Derby winner of 1953!

From his sire's first crop to pass through the sales ring this fine *RICO MONTE colt will merit your attention if you are looking for a potential router. His sire's achievements both in this country and his native Argentina need not be emphasized for they are only too well known. On his bottom line his dam was a stakes winning race mare and a sister to the winners Carmen and Lyceum. The 2nd dam, Colosseum, was a track record holder, as well as being the dam of the good winner Jacapades, while the 3rd dam Arena was the dam of the stakes winner and sire Amphitheatre.

Arnold Shrimpton

Two of the most difficult tasks that beset the thorny path of the poor (and I mean poor) turf scribe, is to be able to accurately describe a Thoroughbred, and also to make cold figures and statistics of interest to his readers. Very few of us are gifted to do so, and I, for one, lay no claim to any laurels in that direction. The only time I ever receive a commission to write about figures is every March 15. Apparently Uncle Sam thinks so little of my work that he invariably charges me for the job, rather than paying me for it. As for accurately describing Thoroughbreds, in general, and yearlings in particular, it is a chore that few of us relish, for it is a path beset with many a pitfall and gin.

I think I have only ever known one man who could do the job properly, actually making a word picture of a horse live in your mind's eye. He was quite a famous English racing correspondent, and because of this wonderful gift (if you think it isn't, you might try it yourself sometime) he was thrown into close contact with all the leading stables and studs of his country. As racing in England is still largely controlled by a small monopoly of blue-bloods, he very soon found himself hobnobbing with The Earl of Tom-Noddy, The Duke of Fives, Sir I'malady, Count Six and Lord Helpus. Because of this proximity to the aristocratic great, the man became, like Mr. Collins in Jane Austin's "Pride and Prejudice", a most insufferable snob. Within a year he wouldn't even look at your horse unless you were above the rank of Baronet. Even then, he would spend far more time recounting your noble lineage and armorial bearings than in writing of the conformation and pedigree of the reportorial aspects of your yearlings. He degenerated into one of the turf's biggest boot-lickers (there is a far more robust Americanism that I wish I could use) and his fine talent soon became lost in the branches of great family trees.

In writing, if you wish to succeed, it is of fundamental importance that you be honest, both to yourself and to your readers, for nothing is more easily perceived than the scribbling phony. In his famous autobiography, Benvenuto Cellini says that there are but four ways of accurately judging a man's character. One, when he is eating and drinking; two, when he is gambling; three, when he is making love; and, four, in his written word. I agree in toto with all four tests, and what was true in Italy in the year 1500, still holds good in this atomic age of 1931.

However, when it comes to writing of someone else's yearlings, much more than a mere modicum of discretion has got to be applied. It is the very devil of a job to be absolutely honest and keep both the peace and your friends, at the same time. In the horse business, it is quite permissible to knife your best friend in the back, swipe his liquor, steal his last dollar, and run off with his wife, but don't, don't whatever you do speak ill of his yearlings. If you do so, you cannot be shrived, for you have committed the sin unforgivable. To paraphrase Congreve, "Hell has no fury like a (yearling owner) scorned". Personally, I like to think that I can safely totter and teeter up the middle road of public opinion. I once read a delightful little story in The Readers Digest, of an old country doctor, who had just the same sort of pro-

Hurdle Racing Returns To Monmouth Park

(1) Following an absence of over fifty years, hurdle racing returns to the major courses in New Jersey with three weeks of infield sport at Monmouth Park, Oceanport. (2) Emmett Roberts' French import, Elyacin, easily accounts for Monmouth's Palisades Purse just one month after his air trip from France. The race was the first of ten to be contested at the seaside plant. (3) A bay colt by Sadruddin—Eysines, by Le Gosse, the 4-year-old Elyacin enters the winner's circle for the first time in this country. (4) S. Bryce Wing, president of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, presents owner-trainer Emmett Roberts with the Palisades Plate following his victory. Leo McMorrow is congratulated on his first winning ride, since journeying here from Ireland this spring. (5) Enjoying the hospitality of Amory L. Haskell, president of Monmouth Park, at a pre-hurdle race luncheon are: William duPont, Jr., Edward Brennan, general manager, and Mrs. Lewis B. Thompson.

Hurdle Racing Returns To Monmouth

*Elyacin Wins Open Event; Low Flyer Tests New Safety Wings With Neither Horse Nor Rider Worse For Experience

Chris Wood, Jr.

Following an absence of 58 years, hurdle racing has returned to major course racing in the state of New Jersey. Revived by the Monmouth Park Jockey Club, Oceanport, N. J., on Tuesday, July 17, the infield sport received a royal welcome. If the reception accorded the sport by the Garden State racing fans, is any criterion, hurdle racing, and mayhap steeplechasing, can be considered a portion of the regular turf offering at Monmouth.

The hurdle program got off to a noble start, with the recent French import, Elyacin carrying Emmett Roberts' colors to their first victory of the year. It was the invader's first winning effort since he was unloaded from a plane just a little over a month ago, and it marked his third outing in this country. The foreigner was ably handled by the Irish rider, Leo McMorrow, who was also chalking up his first winning ride, since landing here in June.

Favoring the soft track, *Elyacin was rated just off the early pace, set by the Grandview Stable's *Balan. When called upon after negotiating the 6th hurdle, the eventual winner moved away from his field of eight contenders and scored with ease. *Multum in Parvo, making his first start in this country for owner Allison Stern, closed with a rush to capture 2nd place, while James F. McHugh's Snob Tourist nosed out *Balan for the show award.

Installed a favorite, by the crowd of some 14,000, the winner never seemed in doubt of letting his followers down, and the faithful collected $5.80 for each $2.00 invested.

The opening hurdle race thoroughly tested the new safety wings installed on the Monmouth course. This came about when Low Flyer, making his first start over hurdles for owner Hazard Leonard's Newtondale Stable, obliged by jumping through a wing on the second hurdle. Normally the horse and rider would have been in for a rough time. However, the Homasote plankling parted with the greatest of ease and neither the horse nor rider were any the worse for the experience.

In traveling the 1 1-2 miles over hurdles, *Elyacin covered the distance in 2:45 1-5, establishing the first hurdle course mark at new Monmouth Park.

On Thursday, July 19, the hurdlers made their next appearance over a deep course and Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Look Around performed to the satisfaction of the many who installed him the favorite in the field of 6. Going to the front soon after the break, he was held in the middle of the course, where the going was more firm. When challenged by J. L. B. Bentley's Ums, just two fences from home, Jockey A. P. Smithwick called upon his mount and he improved his position with each stride to win by seven lengths.

Vanned from Belmont Park for this engagement, Look Around was confronted by a decidedly off track at Monmouth. With trainer G. H. "Pete" Bostwick absent, Monk Mergler, who was representing the former amateur rider, tried to declare his charge from the race. However, the stewards insisted that he fulfill his engagement and the outcome is now in the chart books. Well backed by the crowd of 18,000, the favorite paid even money for his easy trip around the 1 1-2 mile route.

Monmouth's first week of hurdle racing was concluded on Friday, July 20, when Mrs. Corliss Sullivan's Quiet turned back seven contenders to account for the first hurdle race run over the one mile and three quarters distance. Well handled by steeplechasing's "Ice-man", F. D. "Dooley" Adams, the 6-year-old gelding by Pilate—Composure registered his 3rd victory in five starts this season.

An odds on favorite at 70 cents to $1.00, Quiet assumed command after the third hurdle and held his field safe to win by 3 1-2 lengths. Allison Stern's *Salemaker displayed some of the form he showed last year, by running an even race to gain the second award. Morris Dixon's Grandgent responded to "Paddy" Smithwick's skillful hands to snatch the third money from K. Chandor's Fonda. The winner covered the longer distance in 3:19 over a soft course to establish Monmouth's first record for the one mile and three quarters distance.

The first week of hurdle racing at Monmouth Park is the first of three in which the sport will be offered. Three races of this nature will be run during the second week, starting Tuesday, July 24, and running through July 26 and 27. During the final week, four hurdle races will be programmed, with the Midsummer Hurdle Handicap topping the group. This event with a $5,000 added purse will be contested over the one mile and three quarters distance, and the nominations will close on Friday, July 27.

In an effort to aid the annual agenda of hunt race meetings, the Monmouth Park Jockey Club has carded the United Hunts Purse on Wednesday, August 1. Carrying a value of $3,000, the race is open only to horses that have started at a sanctioned hunt meeting during 1950 or '51. Sponsored by Amory L. Haskell, president of the host organization and the United Hunts Racing Association, it is anticipated that this race will encourage owners to qualify by racing at hunt meetings in future years.

blem with new-born babies. To overcome this, he invented the formula diplomatic. When confronted with someone's little monster, he would hold it up in his arms and fervently cry, "Ah, here is a baby!" No fond parent could possibly disagree nor deny this statement of fact, or take umbrage at it, either. I find that a variation of this gag works tolerably well with yearling owners too. When I see one that I would just as soon forget about, I have developed the habit of saying, "Now that's quite a lot of horse you've got there. Be sure to look after it." The animal most probably needs quite a bit of attention at that, but from the inflection in my voice I defy you to pin anything on me, unless you are a mind reader.

Now, all of this is by way of leading up to the fact that I have only had to practise a very minimum of my pet deception in the matter of the yearlings that are in the Keeneland Summer Sales. I may not be able to describe them to perfection, point by point, but I am able to say with conviction that they are the best looking bunch that I have ever seen together in one catalog.

Last week I told you a little of the Leslie Combs consignment, and now, I would like to deal briefly with some of the others.

The Claiborne Farm of the Arthur Hancocks, pere et fils, are selling twenty colts. It is their proud and justifiable boast, that this is their best crop for seventeen years. After you have looked at the Claiborne consignment, you can well believe it. There are at least five of them that really dazzle your eyes. One is the Count Fleet—Black Wave colt that Claiborne and Nydrie own in partnership. I cannot fault him, and to sing his many praises would take quite a lot of space and time, so, the best thing to do is to tell you (if you are coming to the sales) to be sure not to miss seeing him.

There is another Count Fleet out of Lost Horizon (she is the dam of seven winning foals of eight of racing age) which is also going to come in for a lot of "Oh's and Ah's" when he is led into the ring next Tuesday.

Yet another colt of distinction is the joint son of Jet Pilot and Holocaust (she by Gallant Fox). The third dam of this beautiful chestnut is *Flambette, which needs no writing about. This is one of the four Jet Pilot colts in the sale, and if you want to own him, you are going to have to pay for that privilege in four figure lettuce, rather than peanuts. The other Jet Pilot that Claiborne is bringing to Keeneland is out of No Risk (by Stimulus) and I, for one, would not like the task of choosing the best of either of them. There is also a Bull Lea—Risky Raid colt (she by *Foray II) that I would willingly give a quart of blood and a right arm to own on the day he wins his first stake. That is about the only way I'd ever be able to get a piece of him, because what he will bring, will doubtless take me five years to earn.

In conclusion, there are two *Princequillo colts, one out of Jackie Cochran (which I personally prefer) and the other out of Flaming Top, she by Omaha. If I couldn't get one, I'd take the other. Claiborne Farm is looking forward to a bumper sale, and if they don't get it, my face will not be the only one to resemble a Californian sunset.

Switching over to the Coldstream Stud offering, we have no less than 37 of them to be sold. This is because Dale Shaffer and Charlie Kenney bought up the entire weanling crop of Elmendorf Farm when "young Pete Widener" put them on the open market last year, and incorporated them into Coldstream's own yearling consignment. There are far too many of them that are worthy of mention, and it would not be fair of me to take one over the other, so, perhaps, the best thing to do is to tell you to be sure to see all of them and make up your own mind. However, I cannot resist the temptation of saying that the *Shannon II colt out of Stepwisely (she by Wise Counsellor) is the best compliment to this great Australian sire that I have seen anywhere. *Shannon II is an ex-countryman of mine, and we both became Americans around the same time.

Over at High Hope Farm, young dynamo Doug Davis, Jr., has nine yearlings that should make both him and their future owners mighty proud. Two of them especially make your eye pop. One is the Bull Lea—Red Haze (she by Man o'War) colt, and the other is the Eight Thirty colt out of *Dusk II, by Asterus. I am not breaching any confidence when I tell you that Mr. Davis received an offer for these two, many months ago, which was so attractive that he had to strap his arm behind him, lest he took it. Apart from being a first rate horseman, Doug is also a pretty shrewd salesman as well, and he had enough sense to realize that if he parted with them he would be taking the two biggest gems out of his sales window, so he very sensibly gritted his teeth and said "No, thank you." This is in no way meant to detract from the merits of the other seven, but when you see the Bull Lea and the Eight Thirty, you will know what I mean. It's like looking at the Kohinoor amid a pile of uncut diamonds. If the High Hope consign-undistinguished beginning, he won four straight, moving into overnight handicap company and beating such as Miche, Magic Words, and Teemaker, and on June 29 he ran his six furlongs in 1:10 4-5, the fastest time of the Aqueduct meeting. Until the Questionnaire he had done nothing more than sprint, with the exception of one mile race in which he was dropping back at the end, but Casey Hayes, who trains him, thinks he will go on. The colt is scheduled for some of the middle distance handicaps during the summer, so we'll see. In his first stakes attempt, he was a rather steady fourth in the Fleetwing on July 18.

The stable has another animal which will be watched with interest. This is a 2-year-old by Bull Lea—Highclere, and thus a half-brother to the stakes winners Soprano and Pipette. He cost $20,000 at Saratoga last year, from the consignment of J. S. Phipps' Blenheim (the other Blenheim) farm. He hasn't started yet, and it takes only a glance at him to tell why. On a poundage basis, he was the bargain of the sale—so big that it's going to be hard to keep him sound. Hayes, who by the way has never trained a race horse for anyone except his present employer, hardly knows what to make of him yet.

If there is any truth in the adage that "good things come in small packages" you must not miss looking at the Charlton Clay consignment of six that can be found in Barn C. The standout of them is the *Ricco Monte brown colt out of Lea Lark which is by Bull Lea. This youngster is from the South American sire's first crop to be sold and if the others resemble this fellow, *Ricco Monte's future as a stallion is assured. I was very interested to read in Eddie Arcaro's good book "I Ride to Win" that he rates *Ricco Monte as one of the best (if not the best) routers that he ever threw his leg over. This yearling is listed as Hip. No. 255, and if it's staying blood you're looking for, you had better spend quite a bit of your pre-sales time around his stall.

Three from Tennessee that I also like, are the two *Man O'Nights consigned by Mrs. John M. Branham of Foxland Hall, Gallatin, and the Amphitheatre—Prophecy colt belonging to Bob Lancaster of Spring Hill. When you get a foal by *Man O'Night, you usually wind up with both an excellent bargain, and a sure-fire winner. His owner, Mrs. Branham is a Thoroughbred horse breeder purely for the fun of the game, and every year she passes a yearling or two through the sales ring merely to uphold the tradition of Tennessee, and *Man O'Night. Mostly everything he has got (they have, unfortunately, been all too few) has turned out to be a winner. The fine old son of the English Derby winner, Manua, is now no longer as young as he used to be, and if you want a *Man O'Night yearling, this may be one of the last opportunities you will have.

Every year without fail, The Forest Retreat Farm of Dr. Esle Asbury comes up with fine quality youngsters. We have come to expect only the very best from him, and he has never yet disappointed us. In his consignment of six to this sale, he has again surpassed himself. Both on paper and pedigree they are top-flight material. I strongly suspect Dr. Asbury of being both an idealist and a perfectionist to boot. In any case, Forest Retreat Farm is going to have a rare sale.

Naturally, I could go on telling you about the sales yearlings ad infinitum, but it's a question of how much Flet Mignon can you eat? As before mentioned, they are all hand-picked horses, and you can most certainly get ready to read rave head-lines about "all records broken" when The Keeneland Summer Sales come to a close on August 2. If you have a yen to enter the horse industry, you couldn't choose a more propitious moment. The stars are in the right place—right in the Sales Ring.

Litchfield County Hound Show

Rombout Hunt's Minnie Judged Best American Foxhound; Millbrook's Speed Annexes Reserve Honors

Joseph Jones

Saturday, July 14th, was a lovely summer day and as one looked down from the doorway of the Sherman Haight's house to where the Second Annual Litchfield County Hound Show was to be held he could not but think here was a perfect spot for a hound show. The hound ring was set up so it had as a backdrop the sweeping Naugatuck Valley with the distant mountains standing out clear and sharp. An early morning aviation enthusiast came winging by in a scarlet-colored Cub, doing lazy turns and circles until it dwindled away into a mere speck in the sky and then one realized fully what a clear morning it was and what a panorama lay before them.

Messrs. Fletcher Harper, M. F. H., Orange County Hunt Club and William Almy, Jr., M. F. H., Quansett Hounds and Joint Master of the Groton Hunt, started the judging at ten o'clock. There were eleven classes with eight hunts—Fairfield County, Huntingdon Valley, Litchfield County, Middlebury, Millbrook, Goldens Bridge and Rombout—with about 115 entries. This was an all American foxhound show for last year it had been found that there did not exist sufficient sources in the locality of the show to provide English and Cross-bred entries for competition. Doug Paxson, M. F. H., of the Huntingdon Valley Hunt, Holicon, Pennsylvania had to leave home at 4:30 in the morning, and in spite of the bad luck of a flat tire on the way, he arrived in time for the judging.

Around noonday, as the sun began reaching its height, the judging platform began to get hot and hounds coming off the grass kept lifting their feet to cool them off. Sherman Haight, Joint Master of the Litchfield County, quickly remedied this by running a hose into the ring and keeping the board platform well soaked. This was but one of the many things the Haight family looked after to make it such a grand day.

Class 1—for single unentered dog hounds was won by the Millbrook entry Speed by Mr. Gosson's Dash 1946 ex Mr. Piercy's Beulah 1942. The Middlebury entry Chris was second and the Middlebury entry Crash third. They were three good looking unentered hounds but Speed was the more compact; Chris having a rather snippy nose and Crash was a bit too long.

Class 2—for the best couple of unentered dog hounds was won by the Middlebury entry Climber and Crash by Mr. Merriam's Clark 1944 ex Millbrook Hostess 1944. Second place went to the Millbrook entry Andy and Alex and third to the Middlebury entry Chris and Custer. Climber and Crash were hounds of very good quality and nicely matched; but were hard pushed to win by Andy and Alex which were a very even couple. Chris and Crash were not so even—one being smaller than the other.

Class 3—Single entered dog hound was won by Middlebury Hornet 1949 by Mr. Merriam's Clark 1944 ex Millbrook Hostess 1944; second place went to Rombout Tom 1949 and third to the Millbrook entry Mr. Gosson's Dash 1946. Judging this class was a hard assignment for after elimination of hounds having bad feet, too throaty, out at elbows, too old, too long coupled, etc., the hounds remaining in the ring were evenly matched and the judges had a job before them. Homer Gray, whose Rombout Tom 1949, last year won the Best American Foxhound class, said after this class had been judged that the entries were so evenly matched in quality and looks that he knew what a job it had been for the judges. Middlebury Hornet 1949 was finally awarded the winner's ribbon and it was an all around compact, good looking foxhound.

Class 4—Couple of entered dog hounds was won by Rombout Nero and Nector 1948 by Cobbler Jugler 1942 out of Their Neatly 1944; second place went to Middlebury Hornet and Heckler 1949 and third place went to Litchfield County entry Litchfield County Jasper 1950 and Rombout Meddler 1947. Rombout Nero and Nector 1948 were a nicely matched couple, perhaps a bit more even than the Middlebury couple as one of their hounds was slightly larger than the other. This was true of the Litchfield County's entry for although they were a nice couple of hounds they were not matched as to the same quality.

Class 5—for best stallion hound Certified to be the Sire of Living Puppies was won by Goldens Bridge Piper 1945 by Goldens Bridge Andy 1937 out of Their Pansy 1939; second place went to the Millbrook entry Mr. Gosson's Dash 1946 and third to Millbrook Hardy 1946. The winner of this class was a hound of great substance and big boned, good and deep throughout the heart and good over the loins, as well as being a nice moving hound. The second place winner was full of quality but did not have quite the substance as did the winner.

Class 6—Stallion Hound shown with two of his get was won by Millbrook Racer 1945 by Mr. J. Hitt's Ranger 1941 ex Millbrook Reno 1942 with second place going to Millbrook Bugler 1949.

The bitch classes were judged after luncheon and although there were many good hounds they did not seem to be the high quality which was shown in the dog classes.

The Champion American Bitch was won by the Rombout entry Minnie by Rombout Commander 1945 ex Their Necklace 1948. She was a beautiful light bitch, of fine strong bone and well knit feet and extremely cheerful. The Reserve ribbon went to Middlebury Holly 1949.

The Champion American Dog Hound class was won by the Millbrook entry Speed by Mr. Gosson's Dash 1946 ex Mr. Piercy's Beulah 1942. Speed was a beautiful boned hound full of quality. The Reserve ribbon went to Middlebury Hornet 1949.

The American Foxhound Challenge Cup for the Best American Foxhound was won by the Rombout entry Minnie by Rombout Commander 1945 ex Their Necklace 1948, with the Reserve Ribbon going to the Millbrook entry Speed by Mr. Gosson's Dash 1946 ex Mr. Piercy's Beulah 1942. The judges again had a hard task here for these were two beautiful hounds with Minnie being just a bit more finer and of more quality than Speed.

Somehow it didn't seem quite fair that there was not a trophy, a really grand one, as well as ribbons for all of the Haight family who put this hound show on so smoothly and successfully. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Haight gave such an enjoyable dinner the evening before the show with Bill Backer entertaining everyone after dinner with the playing and singing of sporting songs. Peggy Haight takes on the job of setting up the catalogue and putting through the hundred and one details that others avoid. Young Sherman Haight was everywhere and it is something to watch how he puts things through. Even Freddy Haight last heard from in Tokyo had a part in this hound show. At luncheon the day of the show the importance of having these events could be seen for there was practically everyone interested in Foxhunting in New England and Eastern New York there. It brings together so many people who not only enjoy themselves but get a chance to wander around and talk over different viewpoints about foxhunting—whether they agree with such viewpoints is not important—the important thing being that this Litchfield (Conn.) County Hounds Show brings together and builds up interest in foxhound breeding and foxhunting in this section of the country. So let's pin on each and everyone of the Haight family a winner's ribbon for being such fine sportsmen.

SHOW CIRCUITS

Goldens Bridge Hounds

The Jockey Club Challenge Trophy for the champion broodmare of the Goldens Bridge Hounds Colt and Horse Show was won by Miss Mary Gilman's Thoroughbred mare, Plain Jane. She is by Peanuts—Wound Up, by Stimulus. This good looking mare, one of the top working hunters in this part of the country, took a few seasons off to raise a lovely filly by Peterski and is now back in the show ring again.

Champion foal was the bay colt by Jeep—Chypre, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Waller, with reserve going to the filly foal by Waiver—Sleeve Gallion, owned by the Woodhill Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Govern had a very successful day with their chestnut Strideaway. He was awarded the Goldens Bridge Hunt Challenge Trophy for the best colt or filly shown in hand in the breeding division, and then went on to win a number of points in the under saddle classes to tie with two other horses for the championship.

Due to an oversight, only two horses were called to hack off for the championship; Strideaway and Miss Dedee Tate's 4-year-old brown gelding Sir Sortie. Miss Gay Tate's lovely moving brown mare, Riverdale, should also have been called as she had an equal number of points.

The judges nod went to Strideaway, ridden by George Petty, with Sir Sortie reserve.

Reserve to Strideaway in the breeding division was the unnamed colt by Solferino—Costwyne, owned by Tanrackin Farm.

Hanover

One of the most ideal spots to hold a horse show is at the Hanover Fair Grounds. Here one has the advantage of permanent stabling facilities, plenty of shade, and grounds which seem to improve every year.

Brandywine, owned by Miss Betty Jane Baldwin, was up to his usual winning ways and he proved his ability by becoming working hunter champion of the Hanover show for the second time. This amazing horse takes shows, hunter trials and in the past, point-to-points, all in stride, and always seems to be in there pitching. Mrs. Don Ferraro's Sombrero, which has been ridden by Miss Peggy Mills to chalk up an impressive array of working hunter championships and reserves, was in the reserve spot this time as he had 19 1-2 points to Brandywine's 20 1-2 points.

Joe Green took over the top rung in the open jumper ranks by riding Harry D. Ryan's Brownie to the tri-color. In for reserve was Millarden's Stables' Injun Joe.

The conformation hunter division was dominated by the entries of Morton W. "Cappy" Smith. His Flagship and Chapeau took championship and reserve, respectively. Flagship was also reserve green hunter champion to Mrs. Simon T. Patterson's good looking Gerald's Aid.

Mr. Smith deserted the open jumper division to enter Flagship and Chapeau in the green and conformation ranks and Defense in the working division. The three horses garnered 11 blues, 5 reds, 2 yellows and 6 whites, plus a 6th in a stake event.

Hyattsville Lions Club

Springbury Farm's Moonlight Bay, under the capable handling of Miss Georgene Lee, put in one brilliant round after another to make a clean sweep of the hunter division at the Hyattsville Lions Club Horse Show. Moonlight Bay was working hunter champion and conformation hunter champion.

Miss Laura Lee Shreve's 3-year-old Cheesecake, with her owner doing the saddle work, tied with Moonlight Bay for the conformation award but lost the award when they were judged for conformation. Miss Shreve rode the filly to the reserve working hunter tri-color and the reserve junior championship. Her good ponies, Chico and Popsicle won the reserve medium pony tri-color and large pony tri-color respectively.

Miss Betty B. Schink's good looking horse, Sun Hazard, with his owner up, annexed the junior championship.

Mrs. Peggy Gallaway's Rusty had his owner up to win the jumper rosette over Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hughes, Jr.'s Hi Li.

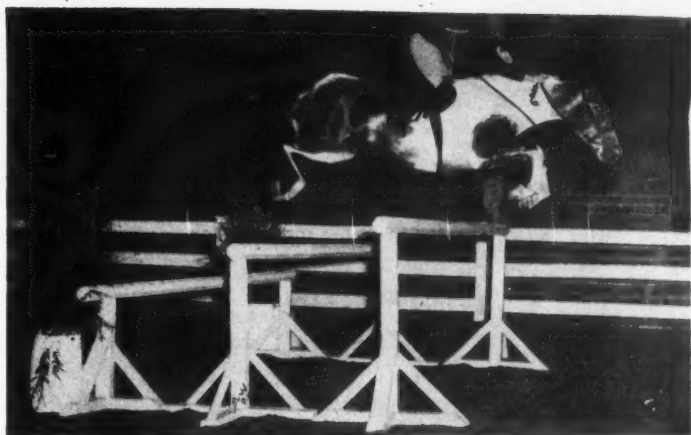

The reserve large pony was Miss Nancy Lee Griffith's Red Wing while Miss Robin Hughes' Birth-

Lancaster

The Lancaster Horse Show, held on the grounds of the Lancaster County Riding Club, drew many of the larger stables, which with their quality performances add much to the interest and financial success of any show.

impressive collection. Reserve went to Harry D. Ryan's First Attempt with Joe Green up.

The weather for the Lancaster show was really hot summer weather, but it showed that it can be changeable for without any warning, a miniature tornado broke loose in time for the last class, and the jumper stake was run off amidst a rain and wind storm that can only be compared to the fury of an exhibitor. One of the tents was completely in shreds and the horses became panicky. Fortunately, there were enough permanent stables available to house the horses which were in the tents, but it took some juggling around.

She started her winning way by taking model conformation hunters and continued in the winner's circle in the middle and heavyweight and ladies' hunters, moving out in the stakes class to allow her stablemate, Jane Tanna to take over the blue ribbon. Waverly Farm's Bright Light was reserve conformation hunter champion.

Mrs. Ralph King returned to Ohio with 2 championships. Her big jumping, Jeraldum, caught the fancy of the spectators and the judges immediately. This 3-year-old is a personality horse and has many admirers already. Waverly Farm's Silverken was in for reserve honors.

Mrs. King's many times champion, Kathleen N, was working hunter champion ahead of another many time champion, Mrs. Don Ferraro's Sombbrero.

In the jumper ranks, that quiet, easy going Millarden Farm horse, All Affre, was ridden by Pat Dixon to add another tri-color to the

Warrenton Pony

The young entry really descend on the Warrenton Pony Show and before the 2-day event is over, spectators will have watched some of the best riding in the country and see some of the top ponies and junior hunters.

With the ponies divided into three divisions, interest runs much higher as it is always better to watch the same sized ponies and riders in competition instead of some small youngsters on wee ponies competing with a 15-year-old rider on a 14.2 pony. Championships were offered in every division and the first one pinned was for the hunter champion, 12 and under. Topping this division was Owner-rider Miss Beverly Harrison and Bigger Bit. Reserve honors went to another small owner-rider, Miss Bobbie Gardner and her Popcorn.

Getting in the 12 and not to exceed 13 hands ranks, the outstanding Maryland pony, Surprise, owned by Fritz Sterbak, toed the mark to garner the tri-color ahead of the Virginia pony, Pinocchio, owned by Nelson Berry.

Miss Laura Lee Shreve continued her winning ways to get her pony Popsicle at the head of the line in the 13 and not to exceed 14.2. Sydney Gadd's Craven's Raven was reserve.

The "older" riders in the junior ranks were headed by Miss Millicent Mills whose Alice Rock was pinned junior champion. Popsickle and Craven's Raven tied for reserve and a coin toss fell in favor of Popsickle.

The Virginia Horse Shows Association Equitation event was a well-earned victory for Miss Courtney Wells who is still able to ride in the pony ranks but is also good in the junior events.

BREEDERS' SHOW

Before the Virginia-bred yearlings head for the sales at Saratoga, many of them have a pre-sale showing at the annual Virginia Horsemen's Assn. Show in Warrenton, Va. During the morning when the ponies and hunters are being shown, there isn't too much heard publicly about the sales, but just let the lunch hour roll by and then, "Saratoga Yearling Sales catalogues are now available over by the loud speaker". This goes on as the supply gives out, is replenished and various yearlings are awarded ribbons in the ring, which award calls attention to the fact that they are Saratoga bound.... A busman's holiday for the editor of The Blood-Horse, J. Estes and Mrs. Estes. Editor Estes had to shed his coat in the hot sunshine but he was a most intent spectator as to what was going on in the ring under the judging of A. B. Hancock, Jr. in the Thoroughbred division... The National Horse Show's Mally (Arthur Maguire) would have found plenty to do keeping the entries coming into the ring. It would have been a familiar sight to many to see and hear him, "Bring a horse; any horse"... George, Sr. and the George Greenhalgh, Jr.s., representing Springsbury Farm's "second string", acquitted themselves and took home the reserve championship in the hunter division to stack up against the "first string" which was at the Lexington Junior League Horse Show.... The Thoroughbred yearling fillies were in the ring (racing division) and while Judge Hancock looked them over in his official capacity, A. S. Hewitt viewed the entries from the grandstand. The latter reached his decision without much delay, putting Brookmeade Farms' br. f. by War Admiral—Grand Flame, by Grand Time, 1st and stablemate br. f. by Reaping Reward—Psychist, by Psychic Bid 2nd. He selected the fillies for 3rd and 4th and then sat back. The official results—he had picked 1st and 2nd in the correct order and had reversed the other two placings. The pony division is drawing from a great many ranks. Mrs. W. Haggin Perry, who puts in many a busy day with green, conformation and working hunters, was kept stepping to get her pony entries into the ring. She has an excellent stallion in Dividend, the "unexpected" produce of a pony mare which she bought some years for show purposes, only to find that she had purchased two ponies.... Miss Sally Roszel, who has won the Piedmont Hunt ladies' point-to-point three times and has schooled many a steeplechaser, showed a home-bred pony and for her first show, went home with a 4th.... Carl Schilling was back in Virginia from St. Louis, Mo. where he handles the show stable of August A. Busch, Jr., but he didn't remain as a spectator for long—someone handed him a 3-year-old hunter to lead in for the in hand event. One can usually depend on a foal to get loose during a show such as this, cavort gaily around the ring to the great distress of his dam and embarrassment of the groom who was supposed to be able to handle the little fellow. With his shank swinging in the breeze, a bay foal took off on his adventure at Warrenton, made the quick acquaintance of several other foals, had a nodding acquaintance with several mares, some of which weren't too pleased with the newcomer, then he was ready to return to the rather dull routine of lining up for conformation judging.

RACONTEUR

Mr. W. C. Jackson, of the Farm Department of the Lexington Realtors, Barney Tracey, can spin many an interesting yarn about many of the notables of the horse industry. He has garnered over half a century of knowledge by being in close contact with them through his job. Many of the finest horse farms, in and around the Blue Grass, have passed through his hands at some time or another, and, if you can coax Mr. Jackson into a reminiscing mood, he will keep you enthralled, with tales of turfdom.—R. S.

BIG DIPPER

Advice has been received from England to the effect that Mrs. C. F. Bryce's fine chestnut colt, Big Dipper, was shipped on July 12th to New York in the care of Horatio Luro. Captain Cecil Boyd-Rochefort, reports that Big Dipper is now almost entirely recovered from the mishap which caused him to be a non-runner in the English Derby. Upon arrival in this country, the son of Signal Light will be sent to Saratoga, thence back to Belmont Park, where he will remain until his trainer ships to California for the winter campaign.—R. S.

FARM MANAGER'S COURSE

Clarkson Beard of the Greentree Stud has announced that the much heralded farm manager's course at the University of Kentucky, will be inaugurated in the week of November 5th. Dr. F. E. Hull is the chairman, and present plans call for a schedule of three-hour morning sessions for lectures, to be followed afterwards by visits to the famous stud farms of the Blue Grass. —R. S.

STAKING A CLAIM

Col. Phil T. Chinn has already staked his claim to send a mare to Battlefield when the time comes for this good speedster to take up stud duties. Mr. Widener's colt has received considerable publicity because of the fact that he is so closely inbred to Fair Play. However, that means nothing to the Colonel, for he plans to send him a mare who is also closely inbred to the same horse. This is Gallacherry, whose third dam is by Fair Play, while her sire, Chance Shot, was also a son of Fair Play. The result of this experimental close mating should be interesting.—R. S.

SPECIAL ISSUE

The special "Keeneland Sale" issue of The Chronicle will be available both to consignors and buyers at the Keeneland Sales. They are being flown down from Berryville, Va., and will be distributed on the Sunday, as well as the opening day, Monday, July 30.—R. S.

DEAN OF CONSIGNORS

The doyen consignor to the Keeneland sales this year will undoubtedly be Mr. Tom Platt, Sr., who will be sending his 47th crop through the sales ring. For the past 14 years, Mr. Platt's name has appeared in the first ten breeders in America. This year his consignment consists of 7 colts and 5 fillies, all of whom are bred in the purple. —R. S.

CHARLES NUCKOLS, SR.

Charles Nuckols, Sr., of Hurstland Farm, at Midway, Kentucky, died last week at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington. He had been ill since June 22. Among the many good stakes winners that he bred was the Kentucky Oaks winner, Cousin Jo, and also the stakes winner, Cousin Doll. Mr. Nuckols was a grand horseman of the old school, and his passing will leave a big gap in the ranks of the market breeders.—R. S.

SCHEDULED FLIGHTS

You can always rely on the Breeders' Sales Company to be on the ball and keep abreast of the times. One of their latest innovations for the forthcoming Keeneland Summer Sales, is the arranging of chartered flights for owners and trainers wishing to fly into Keeneland from adjacent race meetings in the east.—R. S.

T. B. SIRES AND DAMS

Our learned contemporary, The Blood Horse, announces that the 1950 edition of its "Thoroughbred Sires and Dams" will be off the presses by the time this item sees printers ink. This is the eleventh annual issue of this very valuable work of reference. One of the most surprising facts disclosed in "Thoroughbred Sires and Dams" is that since 1940 the number of brood mares in the book has increased 66 percent, while the number of sires shows a jump of 79 percent.—R. S.

FORMER YALE PLAYERS

Two members of last year's polo team at Yale University are Greg Baldwin and Dan Mahoney of Honolulu T. H. Both boys have played the past season on the Islands with the teams of the Hawaiian Racing and Polo Club. Greg is the son of Edward H. K. Baldwin, President of the Hawaiian Racing and Polo Club.

Bill Ylvisaker former Yale polist and presently associated with the Arlington Farms Polo Club of Libertyville, Illinois will play with the Yale squad in the forthcoming match. Last year Yale beat Oahu 6-4 and Maui 9-5.

DRAWING CARD

Some of the polo clubs around the country that are not enjoying as much patronage by the fans as they would like could look to the success of the Hawaiian Racing and Polo Club season that is fast drawing to a close. Polo long established as "strictly top drawer" has attracted the man on the street in numerous locations throughout the country. One of the secrets may be that of playing the games as a benefit. Recently a match played as such under the sponsorship of the Lions Club in a midwest city brought out a big crowd despite a cold light rain. The prime movers of the Hawaiian establishment attracted over 11,000 fans to a benefit sponsored by the Shriners of Honolulu.

AIR TRAVEL

While on the subject of Polo (and when aren't we?) the popular player-manager of the Oak Brook Polo Club at Hinsdale, Illinois, Peter Perkins, is currently taking a refresher course in aviation. Between games and sometimes enroute to out of town polo matches, Peter can be found in the cockpit of his new plane. Oak Brook on any Summer week end looks very much like an aviator's mecca.

Paul Butler's flying interest first provided the wide landing strip in front of the club house and now Bert Beveridge who does some coast to coast hopping usually drops down for the week-ends. With interest in the personal air travel it is quite possible to keep a heavy polo schedule and still keep the "business as usual" sign lighted at the office.

RACING ATTENDANCE

Attendance at 21 TRA race tracks during the first six months of 1951 showed an increase of 3.7 per cent over a similar period in 1950. This year 619 racing programs attracted a total of 8,846,237 while 628 racing days during the first six months of 1950 drew an attendance of 8,533,554.—T. R. A.
